

Advanced Imaging for Glaucoma Study Group

The Advanced Imaging for Glaucoma (AIG) project is a bioengineering partnership (NIH 1 R01 EY013516) sponsored by the National Eye Institute to improve quantitative imaging technologies for glaucoma diagnosis and management. The AIG Study Group consists of the investigators and staff in the clinical study arm of the partnership and the supporting resource centers. The clinical study was active 2005-2013.
